And the story in VAERS

Update: Sorry! I forgot to post article. It’s there now.

Please read this article published today by Byram Bridle. It’s wonderful. In this article, there is a link to a YouTube video called Tik Tok Tics on 60 Minutes Australia. I was gobsmacked by this.

These extreme acute onset tic disorders are occurring in a specific demographic (girls) not typically associated with tics. What could be causing this? I wonder if it could be the effects of the injections? Or even being around people who’ve been injected?

“Metallica (yes, her name is Metallica) is at the extreme end of a global mental health crisis that emerged during the pandemic. A mysterious explosion of severe physical and vocal tics affecting mainly teenage girls. Incredibly, in some cases, appearing overnight completely out of nowhere and sharing remarkable similarities that have confounded the medical world.”

I looked into VAERS for Tourette’s combined with convulsions, spasms and other tic-related adverse events. There are currently 28,285 reports.

There are only 8 reports of Tourette Syndrome in VAERS but there are tens of thousands of reports of muscle spasms and convulsions. 50% of the reports in the 0-4 age group are febrile convulsions. Not Tourette syndrome but...

I find this very disturbing.

On a supportive note from someone who eschewed med school, having seen it as a money-making factory w/ human beings on the conveyor belt, I took an unconventional path sourced from many cultures. Where Tourette's is concerned, 2 things work. From "Dead Doctors Don't Lie", this veterinarian turned doctor found that Tourette's was connected to a lack of the trace mineral Vanadium in the mother. In my practice, I had a mom w/6 kids. She was vegan, etc to the point of malnutrition. She was quite neurotic and her kids suffered very limited diets. Beautiful 14 yo son develops Tourette's I treated w/ transdermal magnesium (magnesiumshoppa.com) for anxiety, to improve uptake and assimilation of nutrients 2x day and then took a chance on chelated liquid minerals containing vanadium. 2x day w/ meals. In 10 days, the Tourette's was gone and has not returned in 14 yrs. So even though it was lacking in the mother, he still responded beautifully!

In terms of Magnesium (called the Master Mineral in Europe and #1 natural remedy of the old docs,) 96% of US and Brits are deficient on an intracellular level as it is depleted from the soils and not replaced. Transdermal Magnesium Chloride is the fastest, safest protocol for restoring levels (takes avg 4 mths) This protocol came from an amazing British study of the restorative effect on terminal cancer patients. The study disappeared behind paywalls about 16 yrs ago and is possibly scrubbed by now. Magnesium fuels all the electrical activity-heart, muscles, BRAIN. Someone who is mentally active to a high degree burns through magnesium faster than a body builder. Each generation now starts with a smaller bank account in their bones. The result? Fidgety kids who can't focus, can't sit still, suffer mood swings, yet no energy.

About 20 yrs ago, the AMA arbitrarily decided that 80% of our school age kids are mentally ill and that they must be identified and put into cradle-to-grave medical treatment ASAP and that parents must be stripped of their rights to refuse such treatment. Legislation w/o public debate followed. Even though Pharma didn't get quite everything they wanted, they have found ways to circumvent and give the impression that parents have no rights. We are reaping the sad legacy now. Rampant addiction which started in grade school. We blame the kids. The AMA is the culprit. My 1st husband was one of the 1st ritalin kids in the 60s. A Mensa member musical savant turned meth addict.

These kids need Epsom salt baths (for magnesium). Calms the nerves, feeds the brain, supports the body-with only good side effects. It is nature's sleep aid, muscle relaxer, anti-anxiety and anti-depressant. Magnesium is lost through stress---mental, emotional, chemical, environmental, physical and spiritual/energetic. In speaking w/ a good doctor recently, she said that for the 1st time in her 30 yrs of practice, magnesium deficiency is now showing up in routine bloodwork. That was never the case till recently. Quite serious stuff. People are struggling far more than we know...

And millions more will get cancer, inflamed hearts, MS, Parkinson's, dementia, mad cow disease, go deaf or blind, and be infertile. But for the billionaire psychopaths the means justify the end of depopulation.

This is one of the emails I received the other day. I get hundreds daily, and I am hearing you all.

This particular note spoke loudly to me and this lovely person gave me permission to share her words.
